thorn--y stalk, all on a dew-y morn--ing Ere twice the shades o' dawn are fled, In a' its crimson glo-ry spread, Ere twice the shades o' dawn are fled, In a' its crimson glory spread, And drooping rich the dew--y head, It scents the early morning, and drooping rich the dewy head, It scents the early morning.

Ver. 3d
So thou sweet Rose-bud young and gay, shalt beautious blaze up-on the day, so thou sweet Rose-bud young and gay, shalt beautious blaze up-on the day, And blefs the Parent's Eve-ning ray, That watch'd thy ear--ly Morn--ing, and blefs the Parent's Eve-ning ray, That watch'd thy ear-ly Morning.
